 BACKGROUND ***

There are various methods of International Trade payments and out of these methods, following methods assume great importance as the same are backed by banking instruments namely Documentary Credits, Standby LCs and Schedules covering Collection Bills. Moreover, these instruments are governed by ICC Publications - UCP 600 (to be read in conjunction with ISBP 745) / ISP 1998 and URC 522). A very high volume of Foreign Trade Business is conducted by AD I Banks by using these instruments. All the transactions amongst traders / exporters and importers are based on underlying contract which is drafted keeping in view Incoterms. The above instruments are transmitted through SWIFT / SFMS mechanism.

 OBJECTIVE OF THE WORKSHOP

- To introduce participants to the four methods of International Trade Settlements namely Advance Payments, Collection Bills, Open A/C system and Letter of Credit with relevant FEMA 1999 provisions.
- To make participants aware of the operational aspects of handling Documentary Credits and the governing publications prescribed by ICC Paris for the same. Various Trade Terms prescribed in Incoterms 2020
- To familiarise participants with the application of various Articles of these publications while examining documents drawn by traders
- Providing guidance on drafting of LCs, amendments and transmission through SWIFT / SFMS by using appropriate MT formats
- Roles & Responsibilities of the Banks involved in Documentary Credit Operations
- To make participants aware as to how to handle discrepant documents

 TARGET GROUP

The target group will be Officers at various B as well a C Category branches of AD I Banks and those in Compliance / Audit / Inspection Departments handling Foreign Trade/ Exchange Transactions in general and the transactions related to Imports / Exports in particular by using methods of International Trade Payments

 FACULTY ***

In-house faculty of FEDAI / Faculty identified by FEDAI
